

Sacred Stones Barrows and the Coronavirus (Covid-19) Situation

Many families will have already been unable to hold a funeral or memorial service as they or their loved one would have wanted due to the coronavirus situation.

As we begin to live with the loss of a loved one, the funeral and memorial service is a very important custom for family and friends to focus on. We need a time and place to share emotions, give thanks for a life shared and honour a treasured individual. The coronavirus outbreak and subsequent restrictions on social gatherings, have had a dramatic impact on how we say our goodbyes.

We can help

Sacred Stones has years of experience helping families with their memorial services. Our trusted network of professionals can provide support and creative inspiration for your needs. We can help you plan for a ceremony once the restrictions on public gatherings have been relaxed.

How we can assist

- We can help you plan a future memorial service at one of our barrows
Our barrows are located in Cambridgeshire and Shropshire, see our website for details
- Use of a barrow is free of charge for Niche owners
- The fee for those who don't have a niche is £65 – a charge made only to cover our expenses
Refundable if a Niche is subsequently taken
 - Your service can be simple and intimate, or larger and more formal
 - You are welcome to have a celebrant or faith leader lead your service
We have celebrants at each barrow who can help you to create a meaningful ceremony
- Services can be held on any day of the week - your service can last for up to 2 hours
More if required
 - A member of our team will be in attendance to assist on the day
